MCPS School Psychologist with the MCPS Services for Students with Autism Spectrum Disorders program

Alondra Anderson is a Nationally Certified School Psychologist (NCSP), certified in Maryland, and is currently a Montgomery County Public Schools (MCPS) School Psychologist. Her professional interests include the assessment and treatment of Autism Spectrum Disorders in school-age children, supporting the diagnoses of mental health disorders in Black and Brown students, and destigmatizing these diagnoses within these populations. She has participated in many training experiences to enhance her knowledge and skills in these areas.

These areas of interest have propelled Alondra's professional work to focus primarily on her service delivery efforts to support students and families who receive services within MCPS Services for Students with Autism Spectrum Disorders program. She has worked in the public school setting as a school psychologist for approximately seven years.
